

Transportation

People travel from one place to another every day — be it a short journey to school, or a long trip overseas. Modes of transportation, such as cars, buses, boats and aeroplanes, have made it easier and faster for people to move from one place to the other. “We’ve conquered land, sea, sky and have even started visiting space, all because of the tremendous transport we’ve created.”¹

Transportation plays an important role in our lives. In this kit, we have some interesting stories for you to introduce the different kinds of transportation to the children.

A fun, awesome depiction of all the incredible ways we travel, perfect for fans of Goodnight, Goodnight, Construction Site. It's fun to watch trains, planes, excavators, and other things that go. It's even more fun to climb aboard. But most fun of all? Being the driver! Here's a zippy read aloud that allows kids to imagine themselves as the driver of everyday vehicles like a train, to the most extraordinary of all, a rocket ship.

Told in rhyme, the big construction trucks are skeptical when Kid McGear the skid-steer shows up on the big construction site, after all a skid-steer is rather small—but when the big trucks run into trouble on a steep incline, Kid McGear proves that sometimes a small all-purpose truck may be just what is needed to save the day.
