Learning Objectives

At the end of this module, you should be able to:

- ✓ Understand the need to establish traceability
- ✓ Recognise the information needed to establish traceability
- ✓ Search for Muis-recognised foreign certifying bodies
- ✓ Recognise common foreign Halal certificates

Categorisation of Content

The content in this module has been categorised based on how important it is:

Awareness Level (A) & Proficiency Level (P)

- Awareness Level (A) - To understand the information/concepts
- Proficiency Level (P) - To understand, remember and apply the information/concepts

Clause in Muis Halal Certification Conditions (P)

All ingredients and food products prior to purchase shall be substantiated with product specifications or labels. In addition, ingredients and food products which are categorised as Medium-Low, Medium-High or High Halal risk will require additional documents for approval (refer to Annex A):

(a) Medium-Low

- Muis general questionnaire (if necessary)

(b) Medium-High

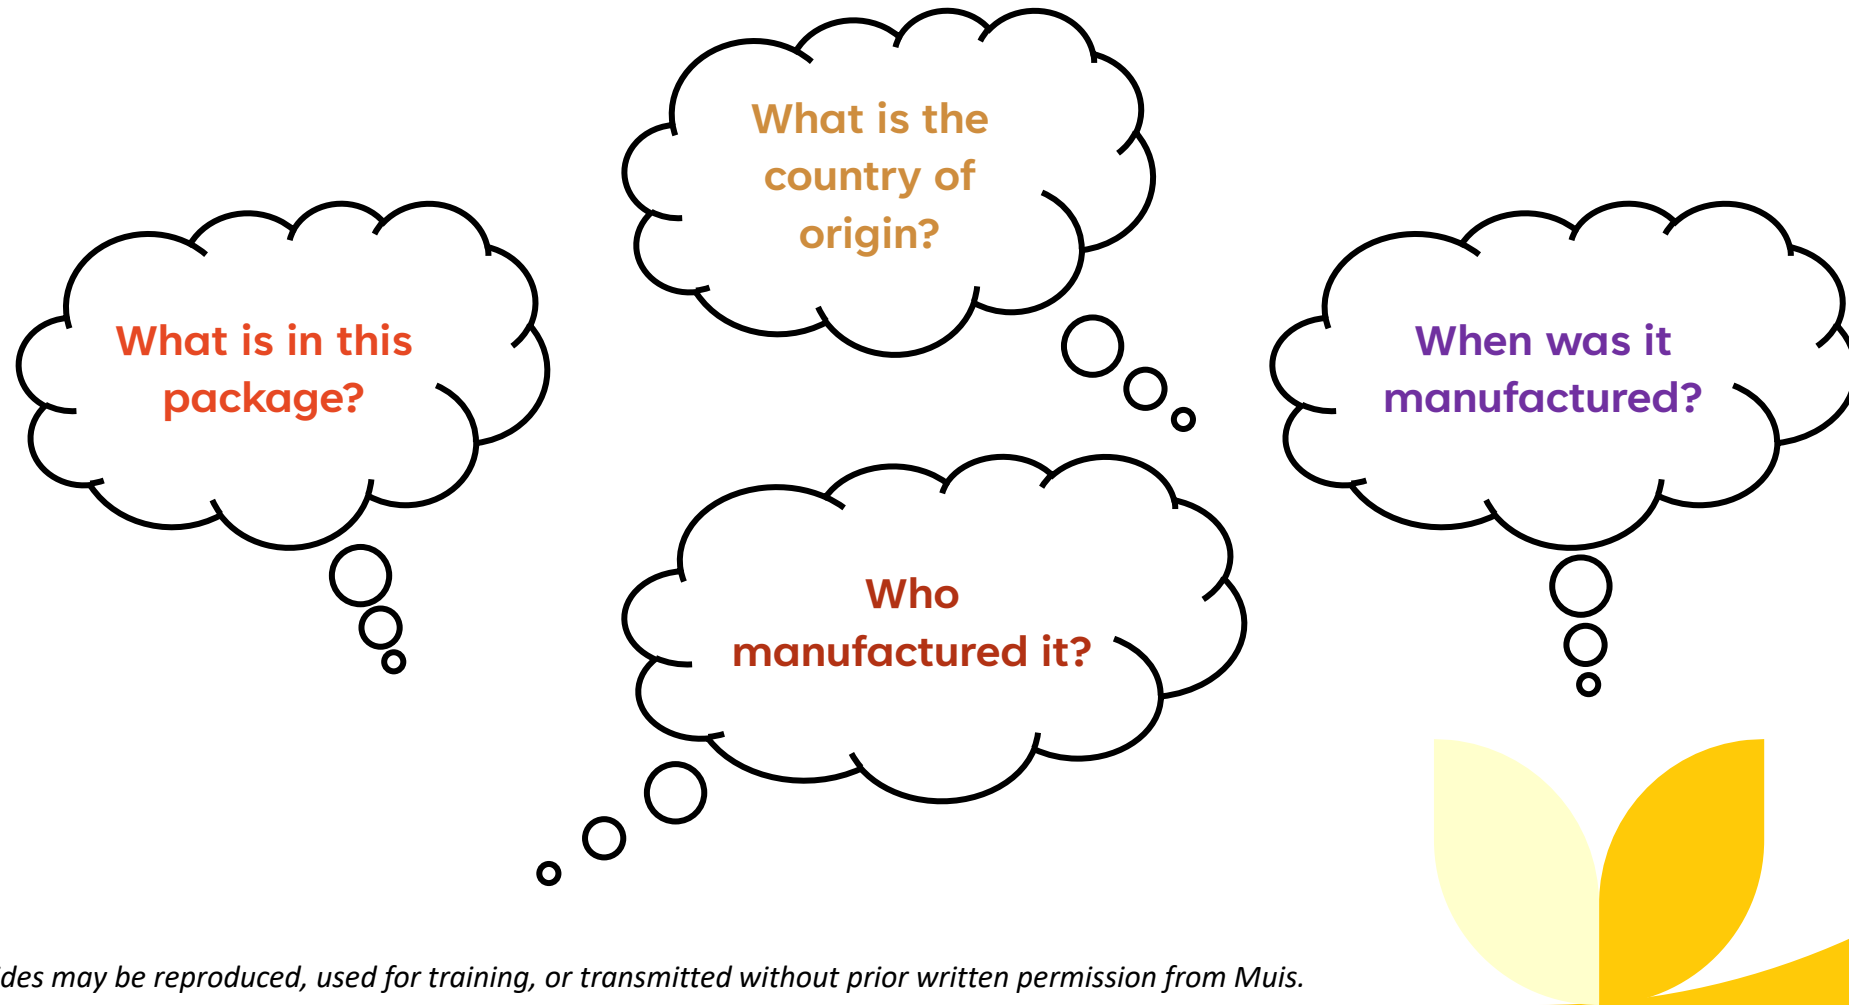

- Muis general questionnaire;
- Muis-recognised Halal certificate* or laboratory analysis report by an accredited laboratory (if necessary)

(c) High

- Halal certificates* from Muis and/or Muis-recognised Halal certification bodies.

What is traceability? (P)

It is the ability to identify a certain item and verify information about the item.

Why is traceability necessary? (P)

In the Muis Halal Certification Conditions, it is stated that there should be no cross mixing between Halal and non-Halal food

- ✓ For the purpose of Halal Certification, food and ingredients which are not supported with the relevant documents will be regarded as non-Halal.
- ✓ Hence, in order to ensure there is no cross mixing, we will need to verify the Halal status of the ingredients.

Labelling is a must for traceability (P)

The Muis Halal Certification Conditions states:

The applicant shall ensure that all ingredients are labelled in English, minimally with the following information for traceability purpose:

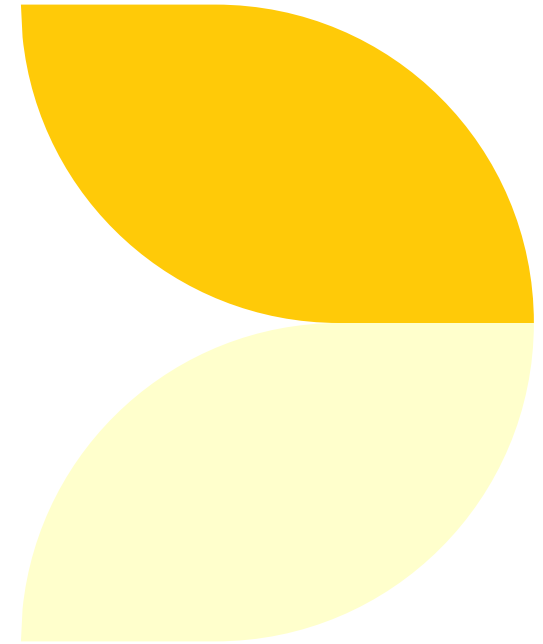

- a) Product name and description
- b) Manufacturer/brand owner's name
- c) Manufacturer/brand owner's address
- d) Abattoir / plant number*
- e) Halal slaughtering and packing date*
- f) Halal mark or equivalent*

*Only for high-risk items such as imported meat / poultry

Conclusion

Traceability is important as it helps to ensure that Halal products are produced and handled in a Halal-compliant manner. This helps to prevent fraud and cross-mixing, giving the added assurance to consumers.

By maintaining the integrity of Halal production, traceability helps to meet the expectations of consumers who rely on Halal certification to make informed choices about the food they consume.

In the next module, we will look at Halal-related breaches.
